

ABSTRACT

5 An antistatic protector for resin tube integrally has a mounting portion, a connecting portion, for example, including a through slit, and a relatively elongate connective portion bridging between the mounting portion and the connecting portion. The antistatic protector is arranged, for example, such that the mounting portion is fitted on a fit-on portion of a quick connector and earth member is inserted in the through slit of the connecting portion.